

March 2009

For immediate release

Conference Offers Opportunities for Collaboration and Sharing Tourism Research

The International Society of Travel and Tourism Educators (ISTTE) is an international organization of industry professionals in travel, tourism and related fields representing all levels of educational institutions, ranging from professional schools and high schools to four-year colleges and graduate degree granting institutions.

Next year, ISTTE will be celebrating its 30th anniversary. During its illustrious history, it achieved many successes in promoting educational collaboration in travel and tourism. Each year, ISTTE organizes a conference that reflects the current and relevant topics impacting tourism industry and education. Topics such as climate change and its impact on the tourism; cultural travel, sustainable travel, emerging markets and destinations, newest technologies and many, many others are offered during numerous workshops. Research paper presentations as well as other presentations by prominent speakers from various institutions are also offered. This year's conference will be held in San Antonio, Texas, from October 15-17. For further information, please visit www.istte.org and click on "Conference".

ISTTE's website is full of resources that are available to the public. If you would like to contribute to this organization or become a member, please visit www.istte.org .